Membership Application

The Morse Museum houses an internationally important collection of the work of American artist Louis Comfort Tiffany, a major collection of American art pottery, and representative collections of late-nineteenth and early-twentieth century American painting, graphics, and decorative art.

Jeannette Genius McKean (1909–89) founded the Museum in 1942 and named it for her grandfather, Chicago industrialist Charles Hosmer Morse. Morse chose Winter Park for his winter home but eventually lived here permanently, assuming a major philanthropic role in the city's development, one that has helped define its unique character.

The Museum's collections were built over several decades by Jeannette and her husband, Hugh F. McKean (1908–95), who served as the Museum's director until his death. Committed to the cultural enrichment of their community, the McKeans left not only their collections but buildings and endowment sufficient to operate the Museum in perpetuity. It receives no public funds and conducts no fund-raising drives.

MEMBERSHIP PRIVILEGES

- Annual free admission to the Museum and six guest passes to bring friends and family members.
- Invitations to lectures, films, art-related trips, gallery receptions for special exhibitions, and other events.
- Subscription to the Museum newsletter.
- Ten percent discount on Museum Shop purchases and twenty percent on Member Appreciation Days.
- Volunteer opportunities.

The Museum is engaged in the ongoing study, conservation, and exhibition of the thousands of objects that make up the collection. It regularly sponsors special exhibitions from the permanent collection as well as lectures and other educational programs related to the collection and its historical period.

You are invited to become a member of the Museum to learn more about this exciting collection, to participate in a variety of informative programs, and to enjoy time with others who are bound by their mutual appreciation for art and the educational mission of this Museum.
